JNCAA : Now council member of New Horizon Council for Innovation, Incubation, and Entrepreneurship (NHCIIE)

JNCAA, standing tall as a beacon of innovation and collaboration, has recently embarked on an exciting journey as an executive council member of the prestigious New Horizon Council for Innovation, Incubation, and Entrepreneurship (NHCIIE). This strategic partnership aims to cultivate and nurture budding startup ideas sprouting from the ingenious minds of students at New Horizon College of Engineering, India. The inauguration of this remarkable collaboration unfolded with great enthusiasm at New Horizon College on February 14th. Distinguished guests graced the occasion, including industry stalwarts, renowned venture capitalists, a seasoned chartered accountant, and esteemed engineering heads from global giants such as Intel, Tata Corporation, and Cienra. Their presence underscored the significance and potential impact of this partnership on the innovation landscape. In a momentous development during the launch event, Indian Bank took a progressive step forward by signing a Memorandum of Understanding with the college. This agreement solidifies their commitment to provide vital financial support for the innovative startup ideas envisioned by students. Such initiatives not only empower the next generation of entrepreneurs but also lay the groundwork for a vibrant ecosystem of innovation and growth.

NHCE joined as JNCAA member in 2022 and incorporated IJOS track as a mandatory course in their networking curriculum. As JNCAA embarks on this collaborative endeavour with NHCE, the stage is set for a transformative journey where ideas are nurtured, dreams are realized, and innovation thrives. Together, we aspire to pave the way for a future brimming with creativity, entrepreneurship, and limitless possibilities.

JNCAA Insights: New Digital Learning Experiences

Juniper Lab Walkthrough for Students of KPR Institute of Technology. On March 1st, 2024, JNCAA was delighted to welcome 20 students and a faculty member from the KPR Institute of Engineering and Technology (KPRIET) to the Juniper Networks Lab in Bangalore, India, with the aim of learning about various router and switch configurations and how they operate together to build networks in today's technologically driven era.

This collaboration extends valuable insights for stakeholders across the education sector, policy makers, and industry professionals, and actionable solutions to enhance recruitment practices, foster talent development, and drive sustainable growth in the ever-changing employment landscape.

Learner in Spotlight

My journey with Juniper and the 'JNCIA-Junos Associate' exam has been nothing short of amazing! Thanks to Juniper's comprehensive Junos courses, my networking knowledge has soared to new heights. The courses are brilliantly structured with engaging activities, insightful questions and answers, vibrant animations, and practical examples. Complex concepts are demystified, making learning a breeze. It allowed me to put theory into practice, reinforcing my understanding and boosting my confidence.

I'm beyond thrilled with my achievements and highly recommend Juniper's offerings to fellow students.
